

How will you prepare for your company's financial future?

You don't need a crystal ball to know that our economy is in trouble. In these uncertain times, it's hard to tell which road to take. But one thing is certain — every decision, every dollar counts.

That's why more and more companies are making smart, informed choices — like self-insurance. While large commercial carriers are failing, having to resort to bail-outs and bankruptcy, the MTFF Self Insurers Fund offers proven stability and financial productivity. We've survived tough times before, and we're here to stay.

Member-owned and locally run, MTFF has put an end to the guessing game with responsible strategies and a sound financial record. This year alone, MTFF will return over $500,000 in dividends to its members, and is helping to pave the way toward a more financially stable future by offering an across-the-board rate reduction. The choice is crystal clear.

Contact MTFF today to learn how you can steer clear of the unknown when preparing for your company's financial future.
